Sodium perborate is an ingredient used in teeth whitening gel primarily in countries that restrict the use of peroxide for teeth whitening such as the European Union. EU law stipulates that teeth whitening products used by consumers or non-dentists must contain or release less than 0.1% hydrogen peroxide. Sodium perborate is a whitening alternative that meets this stipulation when used as an ingredient in whitening gel in small amounts.

Sodium perborate is still very effective as a tooth whitener. When used in a professional setting in conjunction with a commercial teeth whitening machine, results are immediate and can even be dramatic. However, results are not very long lasting. But don't worry! Because EU-compliant sodium perborate whitening gels are so safe, you can whiten your teeth with them often.

We also offer sodium bicarbonate-based teeth whitening products for salons and spas. Please see our non-peroxide and EU products page for more information. For dentists in the EU, we have an amazing 6% hydrogen peroxide teeth whitening kit. Welcome visit our website(www.cnhuaer.com.cn) for more information.
